

Young People Display Olympic Spirit: The 2013 Inspire>Aspire Awards

11th July 2013

Some of the country's brightest young people visited Stour Space in London to receive medals for their award worthy posters from the Inspire-Aspire programme from Olympic Bronze Medallist gymnast, Beth Tweedle and Ex Shadow Minister for the London 2012 Olympics, Dame Tessa Jowell.

The Inspire-Aspire Awards programme reached 25,000 young people this year by using the Olympic and Paralympic Games and the character qualities of Olympians to inspire young people to set personal goals and to develop future aspirations.

Winning a Silver, 4th Level award at the event was Abbarnah Sabesan from Tiffins Girls School who chose Jessica Ennis as her inspirational figure as part of her work on the programme.

Expressing her reasons for her chosen inspirational figure, Abbarnah said:

"After Jessica had a devastating accident, she kept training and persevered to do the best she could, which is inspiring to me".

Before presenting the awards, Olympian Beth Tweedle told an enthralled audience that it takes commitment and courage to reach the top. She spoke about how it was sheer determination that had helped her gain her medal at the London Olympics in 2012. Tweedle expressed how important using the Olympic and Paralympic values in everyday life can be, not just in sport.

Inspire-Aspire aims to help young people gain a better understanding of their own character qualities and values and inspire them to create a personal development plan. Abbarnah explained how much of an impact participating in Inspire-Aspire has had on her:

"I have learnt to persevere with anything I do and I am really glad to have had the opportunity to do this poster."
